

My name is Rose Haltom and I have been teaching in the Catholic Archdiocese of Indianapolis for more than thirty years. I graduated from the University of Indianapolis with a Bachelor of Science degree in Elementary Education and a Masters Degree in Elementary Education. I earned a Learning Disabilities Endorsement for grades K-12.

I believe that all children can learn given the right opportunities, individualized attention, a caring, spiritual environment, and belief in themselves. It is my position that children with learning needs can overcome difficulties and learn strategies to become independent life-long learners. To see a child achieve their goals and become successful is a great reward to me and everyone involved in their educational journey.
